

Chippewa Watershed Conservancy

We're Buying Bundy Hill!

Bundy Hill is an important historic and scenic area for the residents of Isabella County. At nearly 1300 feet, it is the highest point in Isabella County and is a glacial moraine remnant, as evidenced by several large boulders on its slopes. Owned by the Wakelin McNeel family since 1955, the Chippewa Watershed Conservancy recently signed a purchase agreement for the 100 acre property.

What's in this for you? It means that this iconic piece of property will be forever protected, accessible and open to the public for recreation and scenic enjoyment. You will be able to visit whenever you want, or join us for nature walks and activities. Please help us make this dream a reality.
